THE
BOARD OF RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS FOR CANADA.

Tuesday, the 14th day of January, A.D. 1913.
H. L. Drayton, K.C., Chief Commissioner;
D'Arcy Scott, Assistant Chief Commissioner;
James Mills, Commissioner; S. J. McLean,
Commissioner; A. S. Goodeve, Commissioner.

In the Matter of the Application of the Minister of Railways for the Province of British Columbia, under subsec. (2) of section 232 of the "Railway Act," for an Order directing that the pivotal span in the railway-bridge over the Fraser River, at New Westminster, in the Province of British Columbia, be opened only for the passage up or down the river of such ships, barges, boats, or other vessels as cannot, by the adoption of a hinge or similar device, lower their smoke-stacks, funnels, masts, flagstuffs, or other similar erections and pass under the bridge without the pivotal span thereof being opened.

UPON the hearing of the application at the sittings of the Board held in the City of Vancouver on the 27th and 29th days of July, and the 28th day of November, 1912, the applicant, The British Columbia Electric Railway Company, and the Canadian Western Lumber Company, Limited, being represented by counsel at the hearing, and what was alleged; and upon the reading of what has been submitted in writing in support of the application and on behalf of the interests opposed to the granting of the order:

It is ordered that the following regulations governing the opening and closing of the pivotal span of the said railway-bridge over the Fraser River, at New Westminster, filed by the applicant, and consented to by the parties in interest, be, and they are hereby approved and adopted, namely:—

The operation of the pivotal or swing span of the railway-bridge across the Fraser River at New Westminster shall be under the direct control of the Superintendent of the bridge, who shall be governed by the following regulations in the operation of the same:—

1. The signal to be given by a steamer to have the swing opened shall be three long blasts of the whistle.

2. The span shall be opened with the least possible delay upon receiving the prescribed signal, excepting when there is a train actually within the "home signals" of the interlocking system, or in motion towards the bridge between the "distant" and "home" signals, in sight of the operator in the tower-house of the bridge; and then, not until after the train has passed and is clear of the "home" signal at the opposite end of the bridge.

3. (a.) On the top of the steel-work of the swing span, at a point about 50 feet north of the tower-house, there shall be erected a double arm semaphore signal, the whole of which shall be painted white and the arms painted orange-yellow. For night signals this semaphore shall be fitted with spectacle castings and lamp, one to display a red light and the other an orange yellow light:

(b.) The normal position of the above signal shall be "bridge closed"; that is to say, in the daytime, the arms shall extend at right angles to the pole, facing up and down the stream, and at night the signal "bridge closed" shall be indicated by the red spectacle light:

(c.) In the daytime the signal "bridge opened" shall be indicated by the arms of the semaphore in the upper quadrant, that is to say, in a vertical position; at night, the signal "bridge opening" shall be indicated by the orange yellow spectacle light:

(d.) In thick and foggy weather the signal from the bridge shall be a fog-horn blown in the manner following: (1) At all times, when the bridge is closed and as a signal for "bridge closed," two long blasts of the fog-horn shall be blown and repeated at intervals of ten seconds; (2) when the bridge is ready to be opened and as a signal for "bridge opening" three long blasts of the fog-horn shall be blown and repeated at intervals of ten seconds, and continued until the vessel has passed through and is clear of the bridge.

4. The said span shall be opened only for the passage up and down the river of all ships, barges, boats, or other vessels as habitually use the said Fraser River, and cannot, by the adoption of a hinge or similar device, lower their smoke-stacks, funnels, masts, flagstuffs, or other similar erections and pass under any portion of the said bridge when the pivotal span thereof is closed. A ship, barge, boat, or other vessel shall be deemed to use the said Fraser River habitually if it has passed up and down, through or under the said bridge, more than three times in any one year.

5. The failure of any ship, barge, boat, or other vessel to comply with these regulations, after one warning by the bridge-tender controlling the said bridge, shall be a sufficient cause for a refusal to open the swing span for the accommodation of such ship, barge, boat, or other vessel; but the captain or master of the said ship, barge, boat, or other vessel may present a request in writing to the said bridge-tender for permission to pass, and the bridge-tender may, at his discretion, open the swing span for the purpose of allowing the said ship, barge, boat, or other vessel to pass through at such times and in such manner as he may think proper.

6. Notwithstanding anything in these regulations contained, the operation of the swing span of this bridge shall be at all times under the control and direction of the bridge-tender, who may, in his discretion, stop a train and block or otherwise direct traffic either across the bridge or on the water in such manner as in his opinion may best suit the exigencies of any particular case or set of circumstances demanding or calling for any alteration or deviation from these rules; and no ship, barge, boat, or other vessel shall attempt to pass through the said bridge span until they have received from the bridge-tender the necessary signals instructing them that the passage is clear.

7. These regulations shall be effective on and after the first day of May, A.D. 1913.
